Making a presentation
using inkscape

First slide

First slide

- This bullet point was added by creating a sublayer. Remember that items are added from the bottom up.

First slide

- This bullet point was added by creating a sublayer. Remember that items are added from the bottom up.

- This is another sublayer. Note that the black bars were added using a slide with a name that starts with "_". This will be kept in all slides until explicitly removed
First slide

- This bullet point was added by creating a sublayer. Remember that items are added from the bottom up.

- This is another sublayer. Note that the black bars were added using a slide with a name that starts with "_". This will be kept in all slides until explicitly removed

First slide

- This bullet point was added by creating a sublayer. Remember that items are added from the bottom up.

- This is another sublayer. Note that the black bars were added using a slide with a name that starts with "_". This will be kept in all slides until explicitly removed

I am a star. I will be removed.

First slide

- This bullet point was added by creating a sublayer. Remember that items are added from the bottom up.

- The star and the text below were removed using a slide titled "-2". This removes the last 2 sublayers.

- This is another sublayer. Note that the black bars were added using a slide with a name that starts with "_". This will be kept in all slides until explicitly removed

First slide

- Alternatively, using "-" with nothing else will just clear all sublayers.
Additional example of "-"

This is a very important figure. I want to point individual items each slide.

Additional example of "-"

This is a very important figure. I want to point individual items each slide.

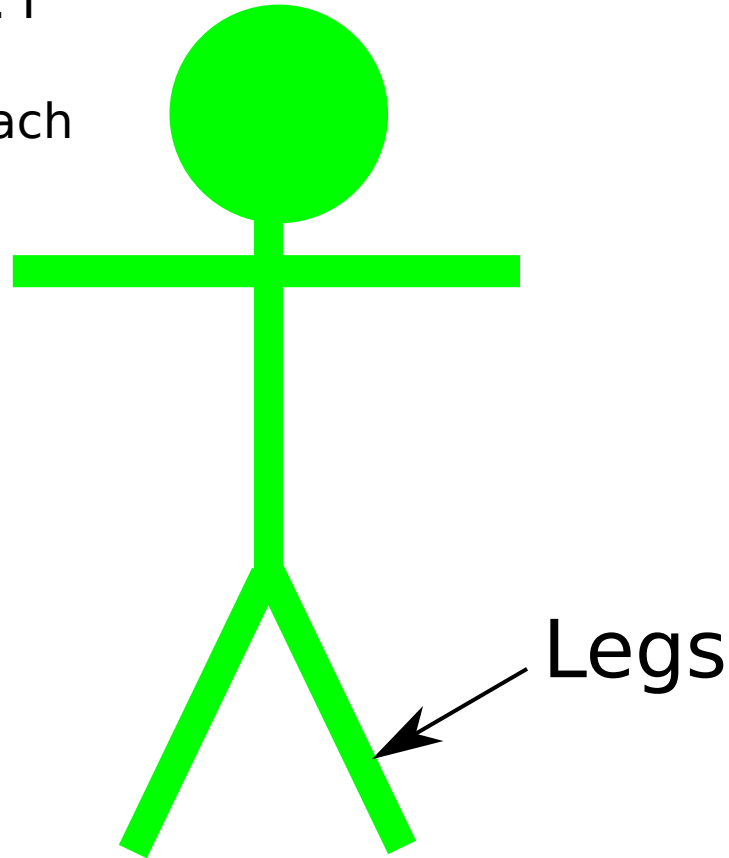

Head

Additional example of "-"

This is a very important figure. I want to point individual items each slide.

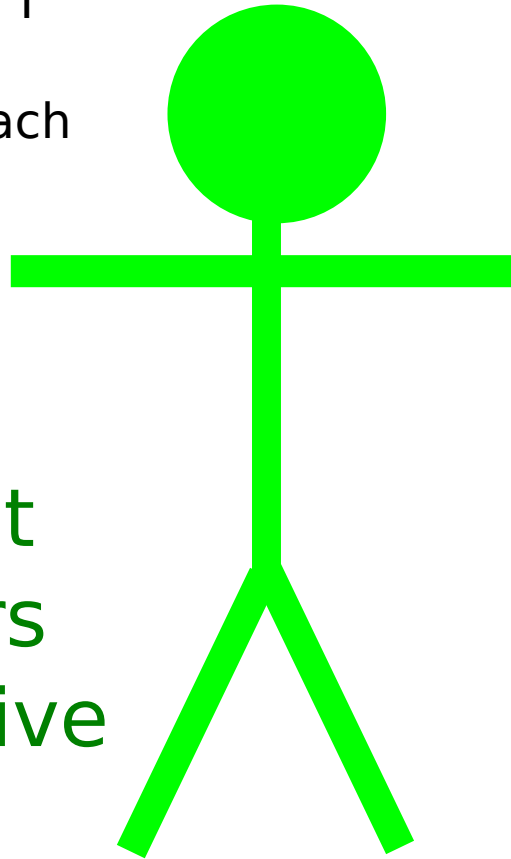

Arms

Additional example of "-"

This is a very important figure. I want to point individual items each slide.

Legs

Additional example of "-"

This is a very important figure. I want to point individual items each slide.

Subject appears radioactive

Changing base layers

- You don't need to keep a template all the way through. Here I switched the black bars by first removing the previous one with a layer called "!", and created a new layer with a title starting with "_".

- While making the slides I used a layer containing specific lines to guide me. These were copied here, but in general I kept them in a layer with a title starting with ".". Layers starting with "." will be ignored, so you can use them to keep reference guides/figures.